cold. On the 6th of December, the day of the election of State officers and Legislature under the Woundatte Constitution, there was a snow on the ground two feet in depth, and the weather was terribly cold. Yet there was a large turn out at the election. Kausas was not so ed then, and there was much at stake.

In December, 1802, there was a snow of about two feet in depth, and the weather was very fiercest and most penetrating wind we ever felt, and it stormed and snowed all day. The cold was itense, and the wind penetrated through brick walls. The following day, January 1, 1864, iderable depth, and the intense cold continned until the middle of January. We went to Topeka, that winter by sled, the driver of which was used to cold, but it took four days to make the trip. The first day, we travelled from White Cloud to Troy; the second, to Atchison; the third, to Grasshopper Falls; the fourth, at sundown, we reached Topeka. That winter, in the space of one week, somewhere between the 12th and 21st of January, a man was frozen to death at Wyandotte; a day or two afterwards, a house in the same place was struck by lightning and burned down; and the next day, another man was frozen to death-all in less than a week. On the other hand, the Winter of 1857-8 was so mild that the Missouri River did not close at White Cloud until Ground Hog's Day, February

In 1860, there was quite a cold snap in Janu ary, but the weather was bright and spring-like on Ground Hog's Day, and did not afterwards get cold enough for a killing frost until the next Winter. Those were the times when the Ground Hog could be depended upon. The Summer of 1860 was the time of the great drouth. There had been no rain from early in the fall of the year previous until late the following Summer, and no snow of any account during the winter.

The worst winter we ever saw in Kansas, was that of two years ago. It was slop and mnd during the entire winter, the roads being almost npassable, with "no bottom." In some respects, the present winter beats

WHERE IS RASTALL !- Shortly before the open ing of the session of the Legislature, John E. Rastall, of Osage, made a pilgrimage to Topeka, evidently for the purpose of promulgating his deas of liquor legislation. The two main features of his programme were, a State Constabulary force, and a caucus of the temperance mem bere, to enter into a league to "sit down on," ignore, and utterly break down the influence of se members who were opposed to a prohibitory law. We told him, at the time, that when he got there, he would be surprised to find how little he amounted to. We guess he has found it so; for the session is more than two-thirds gone, and the name of Rastall has scarcely figared in the proceedings. The idea of a State Constabulary has not been seriously considered; and the members opposed to the amendment speak as often and as long as they choose, and are atentively listened to, for they are the ablest mer in the Legislature. Outside of the temperance question, they are the most influential members, and the principal part of the legislation thus far completed has been managed by them. It is about time Rastall was sending us that postal card, telling us we were right,

Chief Justice Morton to Ex-Attorney-General In his First Biennial Report, Mr. Davis called the attention of the Governor to defects in the statutes, as shown by the decision of the Supreme Court, in the case of the State vs. Campbell, 19th Kan. 481, by which defects great injustice was being done the State witnesses, Sheriffs, and Clerks of the District Courts, in criminal cases, where parties charged with crime are either sequitted or discharged by the order of the Court, on request of the County Attorney, for good and valid reasons. Seeing the hardships to which State witnesses, Sheriffs, and District Clerks were exposed, by being forced to discharge duties without any compensation, which, especially in the case of Sheriffs and State witnesses, require the expenditure of money, and time, in traveiling long distances, and remaining from home, and suffertee at Washington, in charge of the ceremonics and attendant proceedings, is, beyond all comparison, the most enterprising and energetic the National Capital has ever before presented. Another strik-ing feature of the coming inauguration is that money has been most cheerfully subscribed to a very large money, and consequently decorations, parades and in the case of Sheriffs and State witnesses, require the expenditure of money, and time, in travellin long distances, and remaining from home, and suffer ing loss in business and time. Mr. Davis, in his Second Biennial Report, again called attention of the Governor to this subject, and said, "I believe the Legislature should amend the law, so as to secur the State witnesses, the Sheriffs, and Clerks of Di-trict Courts, against loss in such cases." These amount, and consequently decorations, parades and that sort of things will be more extensive and magonmittee has called to its aid the genius of no

TOPEKA, January 22, 1881. Torks s, January 22, 1881.

Hon. Willard Davis, City:—Dran Sin:—In snawer to your inquiry about costs in criminal sases, I have this to say: It seems to me but fair and just that in all criminal proceedings the witnesses and officers of the District Courts, including Clerks and Sheriffs, should receive the legal fees for their services allowed by statute, whether the defendants are convicted or acquitted. As the statute now stands, as interpreted by the Supreme Court, great injustice is done to witnesses and officers, in making no provision for the payment of fees in many cases of acdone to witnesses and officers, in making no provi-sion for the payment of fees in many cases of ac-quittals. When the State compels attendance in its District Courts, and burdens officers with duties, it ought to make definite and certain the source from whence the compensation is to come. To make this depend upon conviction, is offering to the prities, at least, an inducement to aid in convicting the defend-ant, whether innocent or guilty. It is as much to the bonor and dignity of the State, to acquit an in-nocent person, as to convict a guilty one; hence, the State should be satisfied, in every case, to obtain the truth only, whatever be the result. Then again, witnesses, tierks, and Sheriffs, are not the parties responsible for the prosecutions, and if they aera their fees, they should not be prevented from recov-ering them, because there has been some failure in the prosecution, by the acts of others than them-selves. little concern was the ascommodating of the great number of people who will come from the different States. This has been happily settled by the action of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company.

Sections 311 and 312, of the old criminal code of 1859, Comp. Laws 1862, p. 281, in a very bungling way, attempted to prescribe that the coats in all criminal cases should be paid, whether the defend-ant was convicted or acquitted. These sections were omitted, in the revision of 1868, and no section of like import inserted. The Statute should, in my opinion, be amended to correct the omission, by pro-voking for the payment of the legal fees, in all cases of acquittal.

The statutes are referred to and commented monyouing for the payameter of sequittal.

The statutes are referred to, and commented upon, in case of State vs. Cambell, 19 Kan. 481, and Commissioners vs. Ballinger, 29 Kan. 500, and without further comment, I call your attention to what is decided there.

Without exaggeration, it can be said, that Mr. Wood died in official harness. His dearest wish was to see the refunding bill, of which he was the author, become a law. He had made a profound and careful atudy of the finance of the Government, and it was his firm conviction that the three per cent, lean could be successfully floated. While suffering from rheumatism, before the bill was taken up, he informed the writer that his dearest hope was that Congress would pass the refunding hill this session. If amended, in any particular, he desired it should not change the rate of interest, it being his firm conviction that three per cent, bonds could be floated at par. Mr. Wood unquestionably hastened his death, by taking the part he did in the consideration of the funding bill. He made his way into the Honse with extreme difficulty, and was obliged to use stimulant neclicine, to bear the strain of ordinary Legislative work. A POINT FOR BLAINE.—If there was a loud and anxious call for reasons for the treatment of James G. The Blaine delegates, at Chiengo, propresented over 130 Republican constituencies, while behind the famous "205" for Grant there were but thirty Republican constituencies.
